»» The way to us

We see ourselves as the direct contact partner for parents. Early help is the best help, so it makes sense to get advice on uncertainties and questions as soon as possible.

Call us if you have a question or would like to make an appointment for a first consultation.

By the way: Our offer is always free for parents.

»» Together we are better

Together with you and your paediatrician / doctor, we are a good team to be able to recognize the needs of your child as early as possible.

In addition, the early intervention centre works closely with clinics, therapists and other specialist services.

» Step by step ...

... mastering life – that is a challenge for everyone! Sometimes there are special ways, a different pace. The early intervention and development counselling centre accompanies and advises parents who are worried about the development of their child.

If your child needs support in its physical, mental or linguistic development or if you are worried about its behaviour, we will work with your family to develop an individual support program.

» Accompaniment and support from the beginning

Our early intervention focuses on your child's own strengths.

The wide range of games help children to use their strengths, to develop their abilities and to participate in their daily life.

In the first years of life, children acquire the basic skills for their later development. Often, the first few months are crucial. That's why early help is the most effective help! The prerequisite for this is comprehensive diagnostics as the basis for targeted support programs. And of course, you as a parent are part of that because you are and will remain the most important point of reference for your child.

Early intervention is based on the individual possibilities of the child and its family and can take the form of individual or small group support sessions. It can take place in the parental home, in the early intervention centre or after consultation in the kindergarten.

In this way, later undesirable developments can be avoided.
