Who is early intervention aimed at

For children from birth until they start school.

For parents who are worried or have questions, or if you notice that your child, for example,

- is unsteady on their feet and often stumbles
- finds it hard to settle down, is very restless or withdrawn
- struggles to join in with other children and frequently gets into arguments
- finds it hard to concentrate or gets overwhelmed easily
- reacts very sensitively to noises, touch or changes
- needs help with speaking or understanding

Early intervention right here!

For almost 50 years, the HHO's early intervention service for children with special educational needs has been supporting children and parents with care, expertise and a holistic approach.

We focus on the child and their environment, making everyday development easier and ensuring successful participation. We support you as parents and help your child develop through play at home, at nursery or in our early intervention centre. Tailored precisely to individual needs.

At the HHO, early intervention means looking together, understanding and building confidence. Every child has their own potential, and they should feel: "I belong. Just as I am."

Our journey together

Together with you, we will assess what support your child currently needs and how we can advise and support your family. We will develop a personalised support plan tailored to your child and their needs. This may include, for example:

- Individual support or small group
- Therapeutic riding, swimming, nature and animal experiences, and therapeutic magic, because learning can be fun

With your consent, we work closely with nursery staff, doctors and therapists. Together, we monitor your child's development: through a developmental assessment that is participation-oriented in line with the ICF, resource-oriented and grounded in everyday life.

We'll see what's going well in our day-to-day lives and what we can work on together to improve.
